Qualitative assessment

Does your country have a monitoring system partially covering DLDD?

Yes No

Provide any complementary information as needed (e.g., major difficulties experienced, how the system is being supported, etc.):

A country has accepted a number of new codes, laws, bylaws, strategic programmes and directives. The main issues that reduces the law enforceability is that there is not enough feedback mechanism between the decision makers and resource uses. However, in the last years due to mediatory role of the International projects including UN agencies a number of laws and bylaws have been revised in close participants of the representatives on national NGOs and technocrats.,

In addition in 2013 by the support of the FAO Tajikistan a national drought mitigation programme has been updated and minstreamed into a national action plan of the State Service for hydrometeorology under the Committee on Environmental Protection.

The law on ecological audit and law on environmental monitoring provides a basic principles and indicators for the conducting the impact analyses on the environmental sector of Tajikistan.

The country in accordance with the Master plan to develop Energy efficiency in Tajikistan until 2020 rehabilitate more than 246 micro hydro power stations that are not effectively functioning and hence provide with electricity the communities living on the mountains community as well as community living in or around the protected areas.

The UNDP/GEF project on Technology Transfer and Market Development for Small Hydropower provides financial and technical support to improve the accessibility of the renewable energy sources through establishment of local service centers for maintenance of energy efficiency tools and modification of the work of relevant structures to promote the energy efficient mechanisms in the country,

Presently, due to shortage of state funding support most of the state program are not getting enough funding support which backwards the effective implementation of the state program as well as hampers the enforceability of the national legal and policy documents. The same realted to the implementation of the Agrarian reform programe due to which most of the best practices in the agricultural sectos are inadequately supported.
